ENGAGING WITH DIVERSITY

National results are shown in NAVY |

results are shown in GRAY

More than ever, colleges and universities aim to foster a collaborative environment and a stronger community of learners. In order to create more inclusive environments, institutions must understand their students' commitment to diversity.

Students consider understanding and navigating diverse environments among their strengths:

85%
Seeing the world from someone else's perspective

74%
Discussing and negotiating controversial issues

While most students generally believe their campus welcomes diversity...

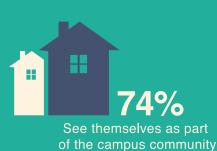

Believe their college encourages students to have a public voice and share ideas openly

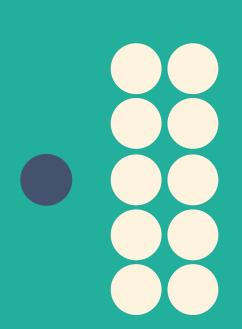

81%

Believe their college administrators regularly speak on the value of diversity

...some have been discriminated against or excluded.

13%

Based on their ability/disability status

27%

Based on their gender

25%

Based on their race/ethnicity

25%

Based on their age

21%

Based on their socioeconomic status

And reporting discrimination remains an issue.

51%

Have witnessed discrimination

35%

Frequently challenged others on issues of discrimination

11%

Reported discrimination to a campus authority

Nonetheless, students are committed to understanding diverse identities.

66%

Attended programs focused on diversity

49%

Participated in campus-organized discussions on race/ethnicity

47%

Participated in campus center activities about identity

Understanding the connections between institutions, faculty, staff, and students provides the information needed to promote change. With insight from the Diverse Learning Environments Survey you'll be one step closer to creating the campus climate necessary for student success.